

(Free) The Best Job In The World

The Best Job In The World

Von Vic Goddard

*ePub / *DOC / audiobook / ebooks / Download PDF*

 Download

 Read Online

Produktinformation -Verkaufsrank: #1474068 in eBooksVerffentlicht am: 2014-01-31Erscheinungsdatum: 2014-01-31File Name: B00HK645XU | File size: 76.Mb

Von Vic Goddard : The Best Job In The World before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Best Job In The World:

KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. The most positive book about teachingVon Ein KundeVic Goddard, head of Passmores Academy, has written an excellent book about being a teacher and the profession itself. As a prospective teacher myself I can only recommend this book to fellow teaching students.

Kurzbeschreibung It is hard to imagine how one decision to make a TV series would lead to this. Vic Goddard says, "As much as I have been uncomfortable at times through the last two years it is hard to be anything other than thankful that we did it. The school has grown stronger and even closer, the students have had some great opportunities and I have been lucky to learn so much and meet some amazing people." "I really do love my job, who wouldn't? I get to work with committed professionals, for the most amazing energy givers in the world - my great young people at Passmores Academy and to be part of a community that strives to continually improve itself. I want my book to encourage teachers at all stages of their careers, and those considering entering the profession, to at least consider being a Headteacher. Day after day we hear and read about the pressures of being a Headteacher but we really don't hear enough about the pure joy of it. "The journey from trainee/NQT to head can seem to be a long and often treacherous road, with many reasons to not travel it. I want to show you that it can be done (for those who know me well they are saying 'if Vic can do it anyone can!') and it can be done without losing your own passion and moral purpose." "I want to share with you the pitfalls that I fell into in the hope that you can avoid them and share the amazing influences and experiences I have picked up on the way." Need we say more?

Pressestimmen Vic Goddard speaks from the heart but never fails to use his head. The man who defended his school against the tabloid press now tackles those who snipe at headship without understanding its value, its pressures or its rewards. Teachers need to be leaders. Vic shows them how. Gerard Kelly, former editor, TES Working with Vic is a rollercoaster, but one where the designer has missed out the downward bits but has managed to keep in the loops. Vic describes the Passmores' experience and his centrality to it perfectly. This book captures beautifully how Vic Goddard's school works. It is a special community to be part of and I was privileged to play my part. Stephen Drew, head teacher, Brentwood County High School (former deputy head teacher at Passmores Academy) Chronicling his time as a teacher and head teacher, Vic's book gives us a unique insight into his career, the decisions he's made (good and bad) along the way and the reasons behind his ideas and methodology. Vic's absolute love for his job is driven by his belief that every child matters and that the impact education has on that child can be life changing. Tactics on how best to run a school, acknowledging one's strengths and weaknesses, improving your leadership ... this book is a practical guide packed full of personal wisdom. Not only recommended for the teaching profession, but an inspiring read for anyone interested in making the most of their potential. We can all learn something from Vic Goddard. David Clews, head of documentaries, TwoFour Any teacher wavering over whether or not to take the next step to becoming a school leader will get a confidence boost from Vic Goddard. As well as providing insight into the school that was the stage for Educating Essex, Vic makes an entertaining case for head teachers to model themselves on a rather different TV success: the celebrity chef Gordon Ramsay (though, hopefully, without quite as much swearing). Michael Sha

Kurzbeschreibung It is hard to imagine how one decision to make a TV series would lead to this. Vic Goddard says, "As much as I have been uncomfortable at times through the last two years it is hard to be anything other than thankful that we did it. The school has grown stronger and even closer, the students have had some great opportunities and I have been lucky to learn so much and meet some amazing people." "I really do love my job, who wouldn't? I get to work with committed professionals, for the most amazing energy givers in the world - my great young people at Passmores Academy and to be part of a community that strives to continually improve itself. I want my book to encourage teachers at all stages of their careers, and those considering entering the profession, to at least consider being a Headteacher. Day after day we hear and read about the pressures of being a Headteacher but we really don't hear enough about the pure joy of it. "The journey from trainee/NQT to head can seem to be a long and often treacherous road, with many reasons to not travel it. I want to show you that it can be done (for those who know me well they are saying 'if Vic can do it anyone can!') and it can be done without losing your own passion and moral purpose." "I want to share with you the pitfalls that I fell into in the hope that you can avoid them and share the amazing influences and experiences I have picked up on the way." Need we say more?