One of the Devotional Classics of Christianity Von Ein Kunde I've read Hannah's book twice and the chapter "Is God in Everything?" several more times. This book is thoroughly biblical, very helpful, and highly recommended for new Christians. She wisely distinguishes between internal temptations and sin (something I remember struggling with as a new Christian - and I didn't have this book, unfortunately) and shares with the greatest of Christian mystics the truth revealed in the chapter "Is God In Everything?" I put this book right up there with "Abandonment to Divine Providence" by Jean-Pierre de Caussade, "Centuries of Meditations" by Thomas Traherne, and "A Testament of Devotion" by Thomas Kelly. The latter book is another Quaker classic. - Brad Clark0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. This book changed my life.Von Ein KundeAfter being a christian for nearly 20 years I found and chewed my way through this book. What freedom I found! I knew God was Sovereign but the practicalities of His perfect plan, His utter contentment, rather than continual disappointment, with me were driven home. He is the potter and IS working in my life, the fact that I am not supposed to be a finished product yet gave me peace to trust him more and to put my faith in Him rather than my own efforts. I learned how to forgive and lift up my hurts to the One who has allowed all things, to the One who can be glorified even in the midst of lifes most difficult day to day surrenders. I recommend this book second only to the Bible.0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. The Christians Secret to a Happy Life is a Christian ClassicVon Richard GoodrichI read it 22 years ago in my first Sunday School class after becoming a Christian. Now, I am using it to teach an adult Sunday School Class. My son, a Bible student at Criswell in Dallas has also found it to be extremely accurate doctrinally. It is an inspiring book that SHOWS us that the "deeper walk" is simply the walk God intended for His children to have in the first place. The chapters on the WILL and avoiding LEGALISM are wonderful in guiding God's children into the wonderful truth in God's Word. Serving and knowing God as H.W.S. indicates is a liberting experience! Matt 11:28-30
