reality Von Barbara Tsipouras Another intense read by Will Patching. After Remorseless I really wanted to read his first book. And I found out that this very different book is just as good. It tells the story about crimes that not only could happen, but happen every day. The most cruel thing about this very intelligent crime thriller aren't the detailed cruel scenes - it's the plausibility, the knowledge that this sort of sex tourism and paedophilia (what an euphemism really!) is a reality in our world, and not only in Thailand. Journalists doing whatever to sell their stories no matter the cost. Insider trading out of insatiable greed. Sex tourists from our so-called "civilized world" satisfying their perverted lust in the so-called "Third World". The CIA all over the world doing whatever they think "right". Hackers proving that no system is really secure. Abusive child carers. "Honorable" members of society buying photos of abused children on the internet, or worse, abusing children themselves, making profit with such photos, discarding the "objects" after use. All of them play their part in this crime thriller, but there's Doug, the revenge killer. "Who is more evil? The killer or the victim?" Chief Lee is putting the question not only in Kate's mind but in mine.

Kurzbeschreibung Who is more evil..? The killer or his victims..? A vengeful ex-CIA operative turned serial killer... A ruthless international VIP paedophile ring determined to keep their criminal activities secret... A British investigative journalist and her genius hacker brother... A brilliant, incorruptible Thai Police Chief... All are thrown together in this explosive first volume of the Hunter/O'Sullivan Adventure series of rapid fire international crime thriller novels. In brief: Journalist Kate O'Sullivan puts her life at risk when she exposes an international VIP paedophile operation using information her teenage brother hacked from the CIA database. With the US government on the hunt for her source and ruthless VIPs closing in on them both, a renegade agent turned serial killer leaves a bloody trail in his wake. As the body count rises, can Kate and her brother survive...? Another intense, thought provoking, gritty crime thriller from this author... "A rapid-fire crime thriller. A real page turner from start to finish." Plenty of action, excitement and surprise in this fast paced crime adventure. You won't want to put it down... "An action packed murder mystery with plenty of suspense..." Trigger warning: Frankly, if you need a trigger warning then it's probably best to look for a different novel... 'Patching goes where other authors fear to tread.' The Hack is the first in a trilogy of gritty, fast-paced international crime thrillers featuring ex-CIA operative Doug Brown/Hunter and investigative journalist Kate O'Sullivan. Also introducing Chief Lee, an incorruptible and relentless investigator with the Royal Thai Police. Book two in the trilogy, The Hunter, launches October 2017 and book three will be out early 2018. For a Law Enforcement Testimonial for The Hack, please see the Editorial section below. From the back cover of the paperback edition: George Simm, friend of the US President and well-respected online business guru, leads a double life..... until he is murdered in Thailand. For Kate O'Sullivan, a freelance journalist, his death provides the scoop of her dreams when her computer genius brother discovers Simm's dark secret by hacking into the CIA's confidential report on the killing. Kate sells the story to a UK tabloid newspaper, setting in motion a bloody chain of events that destroys many lives, and threatens her own. With a serial killer on the loose in Thailand, the CIA on the hunt for Kate's brother, and ruthless men in London determined not to let Simm's death expose their own paedophile activities, Kate's world will never be the same again... The Hack is a unique suspense thriller, offering plenty of action and adventure, well developed characters, and a complex plot that will keep you on the edge of your seat. Contains hard-hitting realism some readers may find disturbing. At c107,000 words this is a full length crime fiction tale with bloody murder in mind! For fans of Lee Child, Dan Brown, James Patterson, Michael Connelly, Stephen Leather, Jeffrey Deaver, Vince Flynn and other great thriller writers. Kurzbeschreibung Who is more evil..?
